New Chapter Recording Instructions

Don't register the new Church but RECORD IT PUBLICLY! There is a difference between legal and lawful. You are already lawful and don't need any permission to exist from any government on earth. Governments come and go, but the Church remains because religion was before governments!!! Just put the public announcement, (you will receive from us), in the newspaper. The church is not under any law of any government. If they can license us, they can unlicense us. If they can permit us to open, they can close us. But, if we are not lawfully under the control of any government's rules, laws, statutes, constitutions, etc., then it doesn't apply to us!

The common law of most countries has the legal philosophy of separation between Church and State. The philosophy is that the Church and State have equal powers. The Church doesn't tell the State what to do and the State doesn't tell the state what to do. This comes from the fact that in the past the Church often did tell the state what to do. But there are other countries that are not under the common law, but the fact still remains that the laws have developed in most of these countries that still give the Church equal powers. So what has happened is that the State has constructed various legal moves to gain control over the Church. The main legal move is to have the Church register with the government for permission to have a chapter. Of course, once you have signed the registration papers you have a legal contract that puts you officially under the government. But do you see? Legally the church is from God. God doesn't need permission from the government to exist. If anything it's the other way around.

Normally the government will bug you until they understand that you are not going to register with them. If you register then you have problems. For example, they say they won't bother you, but then they have all sorts of laws that define what they consider a church. In a lot of cases they simply won't bother you. But if you sign the first thing they will require you to prove is that you are a legitimate Minister. So the education agency of the government in each country will have different requirements, but our Church makes the requirements for our Ministers. But the Government will tell us what we must require of our ministers and if you don't meet those requirements we won't be able to open as a church and then they really can arrest you. SO DON'T REGISTER IN ANY COUNTRY. We will register if we absolutely must, but in most cases they will not harass us. 90% of the countries of this world won't even bother us. All we need to do is a public announcement in a daily newspaper in the country. They don't want to be known for religious persecution and thus they seldom will want to create that appearance.

Down through the ages most courts have agreed that God is more powerful than the government and when going to court against a Church the Government often fails. Stand your ground and in most cases you will win. The Government will try scare tactics and a dozen other things, but don't give up until they start to take you away, and then don't give up if you have the nerve. We will back you up with as much as we possibly can. Later when we have the money (soon) we will be able to do whatever it takes to back you up. I am sorry we haven't reached that point yet, but we will especially if you do open a Church.
